DOCTRINAL SECTION

But a body calls also for a multiplicity of members, which are linked together in such a way as to help one another. And as in the body when one member suffers, all the other members share its pain, and the healthy members come to the assistance of the ailing, so in the Church the individual members do not live for themselves alone, but also help their fellows, and all work in mutual collaboration for the common comfort and for the more perfect building up of the whole Body. Again, as in nature a body is not formed by any haphazard grouping of members but must be constituted of organs, that is of members, that have not the same function and are arranged in due order; so for this reason above all the Church is called a body, that it is constituted by the coalescence of structurally untied parts, and that it has a variety of members reciprocally dependent. It is thus the Apostle describes the Church when he writes: "As in one body we have many members, but all the members have not the same office: so we being many are one body in Christ, and everyone members one of another." One must not think, however, that this ordered or "organic" structure of the body of the Church contains only hierarchical elements and with them is complete; or, as an opposite opinion holds, that it is composed only of those who enjoy charismatic gifts - though members gifted with miraculous powers will never be lacking in the Church. That those who exercise sacred power in this Body are its chief members must be maintained uncompromisingly. It is through them, by commission of the Divine Redeemer Himself, that Christ's apostolate as Teacher, King and Priest is to endure. At the same time, when the Fathers of the Church sing the praises of this Mystical Body of Christ, with its ministries, its variety of ranks, its officers, its conditions, its orders, its duties, they are thinking not only of those who have received Holy Orders, but of all those too, who, following the evangelical counsels, pass their lives either actively among men, or hidden in the silence of the cloister, or who aim at combining the active and contemplative life according to their Institute; as also of those who, though living in the world, consecrate themselves wholeheartedly to spiritual or corporal works of mercy, and of those in the state of holy matrimony. Indeed, let this be clearly understood, especially in our days, fathers and mothers of families, those who are godparents through Baptism, and in particular those members of the laity who collaborate with the ecclesiastical hierarchy in spreading the Kingdom of the Divine Redeemer occupy an honorable, if often a lowly, place in the Christian community, and even they under the impulse of God and with His help, can reach the heights of supreme holiness, which, Jesus Christ has promised, will never be wanting to the Church.

~Pope Pius XII

ST. MARY SCHOOL

Hello school families and valued community members! There are many things that are changing in the world around us right now, but the staff at SMCS are already eagerly preparing for our students to return this fall. In light of changing government mandates, and doing what we know is best for our school community, I would like to share the following information with you and ask for some help on some tasks:

- 1) If you have woodworking experience and would like to assist with building desk partitions that are necessary for the comfort and safety of our students and staff, please call the school office at 282-1974. Kim or I will pass your name along to a family that is trying to complete this project before our return to school.
- 2) SMCS and the Catholic School Office (CSO) will have a new online registration system this fall. Online registration will start on July 27, and will need to be completed within 10 calendar days. Be on the lookout for a letter from the school with directions on how to complete this process.
- 3) School supply lists may change. Teachers submitted lists prior to the local impact of COVID-19. Some classes may ask for different or additional supplies so that students do not have to share materials that they may have in the past. A school Flocknote will be sent out when lists are updated.
- 4) To assist with minimizing expenses related to sanitizing and community access, it will be important to be able to verify who has access to the school building at any given time. To assist with this I am kindly asking that anybody who is not currently a staff member, but has a key to the school building, to please drop off their key at the school office as soon as possible. Keys will then be checked out on an as needed basis. Thank you so much for your time and consideration on these matters! If you have any questions or concerns please let me know by calling me at (316)282-1974.

—Joshua Bargdill, Principal
