Stewardship Message—

Persevere in Discipleship

Ez 2:2-5 / 2 Cor 12:7-10 / Mk 6:1-6

Spend some time today with these lines from Ezekiel: "Hard of face and obstinate of heart are they to whom I am sending you. But you shall say to them: Thus says the LORD GOD! And whether they heed or resist — for they are a rebellious house — they shall know that a prophet has been among them." Try placing yourself in this passage as the prophet who has been sent to convert hardened hearts. As missionary disciples, we should resemble this prophet. God has chosen and sent us; He intends to use us as instruments in His divine will and He warns that it won't be an easy task. Like Jesus in today's gospel, we won't always be well-received, but we are called to persevere. It is easy to discuss our faith with like-minded people, but we are called to share it with those who are more resistant. And remember — you are cooperating with God's plan, but you are not the Author of the plan! Plant the seed, and trust that wherever you go, regardless of how you were treated, they shall know that a prophet has been among them. Pray with this. Ask the Holy Spirit to fill you with the confidence to engage in the difficult work!

DOCTRINAL SECTION

In our human life bodily health is a good thing, but this blessing consists not merely in knowing the causes of good health but in actually enjoying it. If a man eulogizes good health and then eats food that has unhealthy effects, what good is his praise of health when he finds himself on a sickbed? Similarly, from the Lord's saying: Blessed are the pure of heart, for they shall see God, we are to learn that blessedness does not lie in knowing something about God, but rather in possessing God within oneself. I do not think these words mean that God will be seen face to face by the man who purifies the eye of his soul. Their sublime import is brought out more clearly perhaps in that other saying of the Lord's: The kingdom of God is within you. This teaches us that the man who cleanses his heart of every created thing and every evil desire will see the image of the divine nature in the beauty of his own soul. I believe the lesson summed up by the Word in that short sentence was this: You men have within you a desire to behold the supreme good. Now when you are told that the majesty of God is exalted above the heavens, that his glory is inexpressible, his beauty indescribable, and his nature transcendent, do not despair because you cannot behold the object of your desire. If by a diligent life of virtue you wash away the film of dirt that covers your heart, then the divine beauty will shine forth in you.
~Gregory of Nyssa

St. Vincent dePaul Reflection

"Where did this man get all this?" They saw but they didn't believe. The challenge of this gospel is to look beyond our own knowledge of others preconditioned by what we think we know about them and listen to them, allow them to teach us about God and how to be faith-filled disciples. God does not very often visit us in the unusual and spectacular, hitting us over the head so that we don't miss God's message of salvation. Most often God visits us in the ordinary circumstances of our own lives through ordinary people we meet who are faithful as Jesus was to their own mission to make known the gospel. It is too easy to dismiss the events of this gospel reading as past history. After all, we like to think, if we had been there and seen those mighty deeds, we would have believed. Really?
